Shatin to Central Link SCL 1122 – Admiralty South Overrun Tunnel

Date and Time: 29 July 2017 (Saturday) 9:00 am to 11:30 am

Project Introduction

The Shatin to Central Link (SCL) is a strategic railway line that stretches from Tai Wai to Admiralty, connecting several existing railway lines and passing through multiple districts in Hong Kong. It will serve the areas in East Kowloon where are currently not covered by any railway services with newly built stations, and helps to strengthen the linkage between the New Territories and Hong Kong Island.

The approximate 700m Admiralty South Overrun Tunnel is the southernmost extent of SCL and is located at the south of Hong Kong Park Ventilation Building (HKB). Works of Contract 1122 include the construction of horse-shoe shaped bifurcation, tunnel fan niche structure and single track turnback tunnel by drill and blast method; construction of secondary structures in the overrun tunnels such as plenums, side walls, corridor walkway and all related fitting-out works.
