Road Safety Audit and Its Implications for the Highways and Transportation Professionals

Abstract

Road Safety Audit (RSA) is the latest addition to the Transport Planning & Design Manual (TPDM) for public road projects from feasibility study to investigation, design and construction phases of a project. CIHT will take this opportunity to present the fundamental concepts of RSA and summarize the RSA requirements in the TPDM for highways and transportation professionals.

The seminar will cover the rationale and worldwide practice of RSA. The speaker will explain the audit process and illustrate common road safety problems for a variety of road and traffic projects. It will be clarified that RSA needs not be bounded by any design standards. The respective responsibilities among participating parties will be emphasized.

The seminar will be of interest to all those involved in the delivery of road projects, particularly highway and transportation clients, operators, consultants and contractors. It will also be valuable to professionals seeking the certified road safety auditor qualification.
